Last Session of Old Council Tonight

Retiring Board Will Clear the Decks for Incoming Body.
Liquor Ordinances Come Up for Passage.

Unfinished business will be cleaned up to the council tonight at a special meeting to clear the decks for the incoming body. Annual reports will be received. The liquor ordinances introduced by John Lee Clarke will be up for passage.

It will be the last meeting for the dean of the aldermen, Thomas Laberwood, of the Second ward. John Lee Clarke, George H. Thomas and J. A.
Heidy will also end their councilmanic labors tonight. The retiring members are heads of important committees.

It was announced today that Postmaster H. Charles Boehl, who took office yesterday, would continue to act as city clerk to the end of his term. Mr. Boehl has a yearly statement to make up and must in any event balance big books for the scrupulous of the auditor, and it has been decided that he might as well keep on filling the clerk's place for the two weeks or less remaining to the term.

"It had been a case of appointing anybody as an aldermanic clerk," said Mayor Sellers, "I would have named Tom Hughes." Mr. Hughes was elected to the office at Tuesday's election by an overwhelming vote.

The window display at the Econo-attention. It is the work of G. L.

Baxter has worked up a background which gives the appearance of a pedialed wall, with a blooming elematis vine growing over it. The regular Mammy Thursday banquet will follow the meeting.
